

GENERAL SURVIVORSHIP CLINIC

- Care can be provided by MD, NP, or PA
- Patients referred from multiple disease types and disciplines and have ongoing follow-up
- Can be implemented at a cancer center, community hospital, or private practice
- Communication and coordination with Primary Care

Advantages

- Provides survivorship services for all groups
- Financially more efficient than disease-specific services
- Referral to outside services can be a component
- Can focus on psychological support to complement medically focused oncology care

Disadvantages

- Difficult to have expertise in one clinic across all survivor groups
- Difficult to tailor services for specific needs
- May discourage survivors from seeing primary care providers
- Requires providers who can bill for services— not all types of providers may be reimbursed
